National Fight Day

UGT organizes protests throughout Brazil

On May 29, União Geral dos Trabalhadores (UGT) held protests in several Brazilian regions. These actions took place in protest against the Bill 4,330/04, which deals with outsourcing in the core activity and UGT also expressed repudiation of Provisional Measures 664 and 665, which were already approved, both in the House of Representatives and in the Senate and difficult the Access of the population to labor and social security rights.

“Outsourcing in the core activity is a form of hiring that only interests the class of employers, since it reduces labor burdens and decrease the worker’s wages, on average in 24%, according to a study of Dieese (Inter-union Department of Statistics and Socio-Economic Studies). We, from UGT, are against this measure that, at a medium and long term, will damage nearly 30 million people who are currently formal employees”, Ricardo Patah, national president of UGT, explains.

The leader of UGT highlighted that the trade union central is favorable to the regulation of outsourced activities, once in Brazil there are nearly 12 million people working under such regime. “We defend the regulation of outsourcing and we are against the expansion for core activities, for this measure represents a serious affront to the rights that were achieved by the working class, the Consolidation of Labor Laws (CLT) and everything that it represents to us Brazilians”, Patah added.

The Trade Union central held actions in several Brazilian States, among them: Pernambuco, Minas Gerais, Pará, Rio de Janeiro, Bahia, São Paulo, Rio Grande do Sul and Goiás. In all these States, union officers and workers took it to the streets..

3rd National Congress of União Geral dos Trabalhadores (UGT)

UGT continues on its path of unitary fight in defense of workers of Brazil and of the construction of a civic, ethical, independent, democratic and innovative unionism will hold its 3rd National Congress.

This event, which will take place in Sao Paulo, on June 16-18, will gather more than three thousand workers from Brazil and will be an opportunity to draw the paths that the trade union central will follow on the next four years.

Despite being a troubled period in the Brazilian political situation, 2015 is special for us, who are part of UGT, since the trade union central celebrates eight years of fights, accomplishments and achievements that consolidated the institution as a key player in the construction of a more just, equalitarian and sovereign society.

30 years of redemocratization:

End of the exhibition

5 million and 250 thousand people, this is the estimated audience who were able to check, throughout the month of May, the images that illustrate the period of fight of the Brazilian people for the return of democracy in the country, displayed in the central lane of Paulista Avenue, postcard of the city of São Paulo.

During the closing ceremony, which took place at the Cultura bookstore on May 27, Ricardo Patah, president of UGT, celebrated the fact that the city of São Paulo hosted 1 km of a photographic exhibition, providing political debates and discussions to the entire society.

Patah recalled that the freedom that the population currently has to take it to the streets and demand more rights is a result of this period in which there was a lot of fight, and we must not forget that some people lost their lives on behalf of democracy. And, therefore, "we must remember the past in order to build an even better future", the president of UGT emphasized.

Roberto de Lucena, vice-president of UGT, congressman, secretary of Tourism of the State of SP, revealed that the governor is very excited and satisfied with the discussions that UGT has done, in this moment of transition that the country is going through. Lucena also said that he believes that we are leaving a model of a country that no longer fits us and he is absolutely sure that Brazil will become even better than the we are currently experiencing.

Chiquinho Pereira, secretary of UGT's department of trade union organization and policies, talked about the process of organization of the exhibition and said that it even offers the opportunity for young unionists of today, who did not experience this period, to get to know the history and, thus, strengthen themselves in search of even better conditions for the Brazilian society.

At the closing of the exhibition of 30 years of redemocratization, the following people, from UGT, attended the event: Canindé Pegado, secretary general; Enilson Simões de Moura (Alemão), Laerte Teixeira and Roberto Santiago, vice-presidents; Marcos Afonso, press secretary; José Roberto de Araújo Cunha Junior, secretary of economic issues; Carlos Alberto Schmitt Azevedo, secretary of housing policies; Wagner José de Souza, assistant secretary of international affairs (Giselle Corrêa, UGT's newsroom).

Patah talks about outsourcing at the Senate

During the theme session on outsourcing, which took place on May 19, at the Senate, Ricardo Patah, president of UGT, states that the outsourcing project aims to increase the profit of companies and asked the Senate to lead the discussion of another proposal that answer all the involved segments.

The thematic session of the plenary was held to debate the Bill 30/2015, approved in April by the House of Representatives and submitted to the senate. The proposition regulates outsourcing contracts and allows, for example, the outsourcing of workers who act in the core activity of a company (with information of Agência Senado).

UGT and movements are united in the Fight

Trade union centrals and social movements organize a protest to face package of cruelties against the working class

The head office of UGT, in downtown São Paulo, was stage of a meeting on May 11, which was attended by representatives of social movements and trade unions of a wide range of professional classes to discuss the paths for society to face the package of cruelties that is being submitted at the House of Representatives and Senate.

This meeting had the goal of preparing the National Day of Stoppages and Protests – On the way to a General Strike, a major protest expected to take place in several Brazilian cities with the goal of showing that the working class is against the Provisional Measures 664 and 665, which determine new rules for the access to labor and social security rights, besides the Bill 4330, which deals with outsourcing, but causes precarious labor relations and reduces the achieved rights.

According to Ricardo Patah, national president of UGT, the trade union central is prepared for May 29, and it is necessary to include issues related to the Student Financing Fund (FIES) in the demand agenda of the protest, which is damaging thousands of students throughout Brazil and teachers who remained on strike.

“We need to strengthen the agenda that unite us in pro of a higher goal, which, at this point, is preventing the Provisional Measures 664 and 665 and the Bill 4,330 from being approved, but we must also fight for the improvement of education in our country, in order to become, in practice, an “Educating Country”, it is essential that teachers are valued and that they have better working conditions”, Patah explains.

Representatives of CTB, CGTB, CUT, Força Sindical, NCST and Intersindical attended the meeting at UGT’s head office, despite political or ideological divergences, they recognized that this is the time to strengthen the union among institutions to face this situation that is extremely harmful to the working class. “Any form of misunderstanding among centrals, at this point, is little if compared to everything that was presented to be tackled”, Francisco Pereira (Chiquinho), secretary of UGT’s Department of Trade Union Organization and Policies, explained..

UGT debated Outsourcing in the Senate

On May 14, União Geral dos Trabalhadores (UGT), represented by its vice-president Lourenço Prado (in the video), attended, a public hearing held by the Senate to debate a project on outsourcing that was approved by the House of Representatives

With the topic “Outsourcing: the revocation of the Áurea Law (Law that eliminated slavery in Brazil) and slave labor”, this debate was led by senator Paulo Paim (PT party- State of Rio Grande do Sul) and was attended by Paulo Sérgio de Almeida, secretary of the Directory of Labor Inspection; Luís Antônio Camargo de Melo, general labor attorney; Paulo Luiz Schmidt, president of the National Association of Judges of the Labor Court (Anamatra); Magda Barros Biavaschi, coordinator of the Forum in Defense of Workers Threatened by Outsourcing; and by Helder Santos Amorim, labor

According to the officer of UGT, the trade union central is favorable to the regulation of outsourcing, since there are currently 12 million outsourced workers, but it is vehemently against the outsourcing of core activities, which will harm 30 million professionals.

“It is essential that that the outsourced activities are regulated, but increasing it to core activities is simply tearing up the Consolidation of Labor Laws (CLT), which represents all the rights that the working class achieved”, Lourenço said.

Commerce workers work more and earn less

On May 20, four trade union centrals had a meeting to reflect and, thus, propose measures that improve the quality of life and work of the commerce class. This 1st National Meeting of the Unified Forum of Commerce Workers of Trade Union Centrals took place at the Hotel Dan Inn Planalto, downtown Sao Paulo.

During the opening ceremony, Ricardo Patah, president of UGT and of the Commerce Workers Union of São Paulo, said that the commerce workers class is among the main propellers of the Brazilian economy. And that, therefore, this meeting must answer the needs of commerce workers, such as, for example, by attacking informality and turnover, which only depreciate workers.

In the first table, Airton Santos and José Silvestre, both from Dieese, talked about the topics "The importance of the commerce sector in economy" and "Turnover in the sector", respectively. They presented studies that were made that prove that the working shifts of commerce workers are higher than other classes and wages do not follow this reality. That is, not only they earn lower wages, they also work more than other workers.

To Cleonice Caetano, from UGT's Department of Occupational Health and Security at Work and director of Social Assistance and Social Welfare of the Commerce Workers Union of São Paulo, workers are already injured on the way to work, they have to use precarious means of transport and face long lines, when they reach their workplace, their bosses do not want to know about their personal problems, they only aim at capital, not to mention stress and moral harassment commerce workers have to go through.

As a result of the Forum, two resolutions were taken. Trade unionists approved, unanimously, the "Commitment Letter", which highlights the unified fight of trade union centrals for the creation of a national collective bargaining to eliminate regional inequalities and discriminations. And the coordination of the Forum approved the "Manifesto of Commerce Workers of Brazil", in this text they describe the unified agenda, which includes, among other points, issues such as: collective bargaining; unified data base; workers health; Sunday and holiday work; and national wage floor (Giselle Corrêa, UGT's newsroom).
